Working with new farmers to build strong businesses, expertise in the field, and a resilient food system.

Happy June! Though it is officially June, we are still shaking off the chilly spring weather and frequent showers. Farmers who gratefully returned to the soil after a long winter (and what seems like a very long, slow start to spring) are hoping that it does eventually warm up and kick start the summer crops for a fantastic local food season ahead. In the meantime, we’ve been plugging away with fundraisers, hands-on trainings on the incubator farms, hosting volunteer work days, and conference learning and networking!

Looking ahead, on the top of our minds is the opening of the World PEAS CSA. Our farmers have been gracefully handling mother nature’s erratic conditions: it’s been too wet to get the plants going in the ground, so we pushed the CSA start date back two weeks, to the week of June 18th. A big hat off to our growers for handling the many unknowns of farming with aplomb. The upside to the delay is more time to get registered! Please let your friends know about this program: it’s a critical resource for our new and beginning farmers, and a great opportunity for your fellow community members to eat delicious, fresh, local food, while supporting new businesses, healing neighborhood landscapes, and revitalizing the local economy.
give you the low-down on what you need to know and do to get a BFRDP grant, make sure it fits well with your organization, and ensure that serving farmers is always paramount in your project planning. We are doing a double-header that day and also hosting our MPPU (Mobile Poultry Processing Unit) Hands-on Training on June 20th in Raynham, MA. Come learn about the MA state slaughter license requirements and get your required food safety training all in one shot! Soon after is the Gibbet Hill Cattle Run & BBQ on Wednesday, June 28th at 6:00 PM at Gibbet Hill Grill in Groton. Come cheer on New Entry staff members as they dodge through the cowpies, and enjoy local barbecue and beer while you spectate! Consider donating to one of our two teams to support the next generation of farmers. If you're a food producer yourself, check out an alternate event that day, that's more educationally focused: UMass's Food Safety and Drought Twilight Meeting. After such a tumultuous year of weather, that meeting should be a useful forum to reflect on mitigating strategies and share ideas for backup plans. To round out June, there's another event the very next day, the Explore Farming Workshop on Thursday, June 29th in Lowell! Have you ever wondered if farming is right for you? Come learn the answer to that enticing question!

Looking beyond June, we have three other events on the horizon. August 11th to 13th is the summer conference for the Northeast Organic Farming Association at Hampshire College in Amherst. Geared towards gardeners, farmers, growers, and food-lovers, this is an event that offers practical solutions and moral support in equal measure. New Entry is hosting a Veteran Farmer Mixer on Saturday afternoon, August 12th starting with lunch at the NOFA conference - stay tuned for more info and discount conference registration for veterans soon! Later in the year, the 6th Annual NIFTI National Field School takes place in Pacific Grove, CA. If you're interested in incubator farming networks, mark your calendar for November 8th through 10th. Finally, there's New Entry's own Community Food Systems Conference from December 5th through 7th. The whole organization is really excited about this event, which will be a lively and honest exploration of how social justice, local economies, and community food systems are intertwined.

The chill is nearing its end, all that is green and good is returning to our sights, and we are thankful as always that you read our newsletters! Take a deep breath of the sweet air and enjoy the springtime with us.

[Cattle Run & BBQ to Benefit New Entry!]

Put together a team of three and join us on Wednesday, June 28, 2017, at 6:00 PM for the second annual Gibbet Hill Cattle Run & BBQ! This unique relay race will challenge runners of all abilities while raising money for New Entry (and other charities) - let's get a strong team contingent supporting Next Generation Farmers!

The folks from Gibbet Hill have mapped out a rugged and hilly 1.4-mile course which weaves through Gibbet Hill Farm. Your run will take you past the produce farm, through the black angus cattle herd and up to General Bancroft’s “castle” on top of Gibbet Hill. The race will consist of 6 loops for a total of 8.4 miles. Each runner will run the course twice in the following order: 1-2-3-1-2-3. In some areas of the course, you’ll be running on the actual cow path worn in the hill by Gibbet Hill’s famous Black Angus herd! You might want Barbecue Think you’ll work up an appetite? Directly after the race, chefs from each Webber Restaurant Group property will collaborate to create a barbecue that will be sure to satisfy your hunger. Local beer will also be available to quench your thirst.

Beneficiaries Entry fee is $600 per team ($200 per runner), which includes the race, barbecue, and a frosty Narragansett. THE ENTIRE ENTRY FEE will go directly to New Entry (or the other participating charities, but we hope you will support next generation farmers!).

Please help raise additional funds to help New Entry grow new farmers! Donate to our staff teams here and here!

Make Sure You're Counted!
2017 Census of Agriculture

Make Sure Your Farm or Ranch Counts!
Your agricultural operation, large or small, is important to U.S. agriculture. The Ag Census is the only source of uniform, comprehensive, and impartial agriculture data for every county in the nation. This data is used to advocate for you and for policies, services, and programs that support young farmers!

Please sign up to take the 2017 Census of Agriculture. Make sure you're counted!
Save the Date for the 6th Annual NIFTI Field School

Come explore, learn, connect and unwind with fellow Incubator Farm Project staff from across the country. This year will include: • Workshops on best practices related to Incubator Farm Project design and implementation • Discussion sessions for digging deep and getting creative • Farm visit to the Agriculture and Land-Based Training Association • Opportunities to stretch, move and relax on the seaside with people who intimately understand your work!

Risk Management Tips for June
In this month’s edition of risk management strategies for farmers, we would like to point you in the direction of our Farm Financial Management Resources web page. Here you will find case studies of farmers who successfully used capital to increase profits on their farm, record keeping strategies, and financing sources. Within the recordkeeping strategies section, you will find materials from a series of Northeast Extension Risk Management Education workshops that New Entry produced, including:

- A webinar from Purple Pitchfork’s Chris Blanchard on organizing farm data
- Information on getting started with a Cabbige account
- “Farming Smarter” workshop with Richard Wiswall
- A webinar on record keeping for your organic certification

We are also in the process of developing record templates for farmers to use out in the field on a day-to-day basis. Look for updates on those in next month’s newsletter.

As a follow-up to last month’s drought conversation, consider attending UMass’s Food Safety and Drought Twilight Meeting coming up on June 28th. Finally, for those that weren’t able to attend our Risk Management panel in April, you can now find the presentations in our Farmer Resource Library:

- Intro to FSA’s Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP)
- NRCS programs for beginning farmers
- Risk Management for beginning farmers

Next month we will provide some information on organizations that help farms assist with legal aspects of risk management on their farms.
The NOFA Summer Conference is a three-day solutions-oriented annual celebration of the grassroots organic movement. Gardeners, farmers, growers and food-lovers from across the Northeast will again share their inspiration and ideas for organic food, farming, health, activism, and beyond. In addition to over 130 workshops and sessions on everything from soil health and food preservation to mushrooms, bees, healthy living, and food activism, the conference features annual favorites like the Children’s Conference, contra dance, film screenings, local dinner celebration, farm tours, exhibitors tent, and live music and drumming. This year will also feature a “Country Fair”, showcasing farm and garden innovations as well NOFA-VT’s wood-fired mobile pizza oven!

New Entry will also be hosting a social mixer for Farmer Veterans! Join in the fun and meet your fellow farmers while providing input on future gatherings and learning opportunities targeted to returned military veterans. More information coming soon - sign up to attend here.

June 20th - Poultry Processing Hands-On Food Safety Training
June 20, 2017 at Freedom Food Farm, Raynham, MA.

Join New Entry staff and farmers Chuck Currie and Drew Locke for a hands-on poultry processing and food safety training. If you are interested in processing birds on your farm - either in your own facility or using an approved Mobile Poultry Processing Unit (MPPU), you will be required to apply for your MA state slaughter license and attend a hands-on food safety training in the context of an active poultry processing event. The training day will cover the requirements for applying for your state slaughter license from DPH, additional regulatory and practical considerations, food safety hands-on practice, MPPU Unit operations and maintenance practice, and practical hands-on experience applying HACCP during live poultry processing. Come ready to get your hands dirty, humanely process some chickens, and learn all of the requirements to process birds on your farm.

Upon successful completion of the hands-on training, producers will receive a link to take the online exam through MDAR who will then issue you a training certificate valid for five years. If you complete the licensing requirements, the Eastern Mass / New Entry-owned MPPU operates as a DIY (Do-It-Yourself) rental model that can be scheduled for MA slaughter license-holders.

The training will be held at Freedom Food Farm on Tuesday, June 20th from 9 am - 2 pm. A local farm lunch of oven-fired pizza will be served. Registration fee of $75. Register online here. For questions about the MPPU or MA slaughter licensing requirements, please email jennifer.hashley@tufts.edu. Check out New Entry's other Poultry Processing Resources and helpful guides on our website.
“A proper community, we should remember also, is a commonwealth: a place, a resource, an economy. It answers the needs, practical as well as social and spiritual, of its members—among them the need to need one another. The answer to the present alignment of political power with wealth is the restoration of the identity of community and economy.”

Volunteer Opportunities
Becoming a World PEAS Food Hub Volunteer!

Food Hub volunteers serve at our warehouse in Lowell. They unload, unpack, pack, and prepare our customers' orders. This includes taking inventory, folding and unfolding boxes, and neatly packing shares, loading them onto pallets and our trucks, and cleaning up after we finish fulfilling orders.

Our food hub volunteers commit to one, two, or three mornings per week.

Our schedule is as follows:

- Tuesday 9:00 AM - 12:00 AM
- Wednesday 9:00 AM - 12:00 AM
- Thursday 9:00 AM - 12:00 AM

Benefits: Work alongside caring, friendly individuals committed to solving problems in our food system. Volunteers who can commit to at least two mornings per week for 20 weeks receive first pick of surplus produce. There is the opportunity to learn about the handling and use of unique produce.

Next Steps: To inquire about this volunteer position, email

maria.smith@tufts.edu
Last month, we partnered with the good people at Votze Butler inc. for a volunteer day at Ogonowski Memorial Fields in Dracut, MA. With their help, we were able to clean out our greenhouses, prep fields for the growing season, transplant plants, and move brush. Thanks, Votze Butler for the dedication to sustainable, local farmers in your community!

Highlights from the 8th Annual New Entry Fundraiser
The 8th Annual New Entry Fundraiser was held on May 8, at the award-winning Inn at Hastings Park and Artistry on the Green in Lexington, MA. Attendees enjoyed cocktails and hors d’oeuvres with the opportunity to mingle with New Entry staff, farmer graduates, and fellow supporters. Dinner featured a farm to table four-course meal with wine accompaniments. The night was full of conversation on the food system, speakers at the event include Farmer Tim, a farmer graduate, Trisha Perez Kennealy, venue proprietor and New Entry supporter, and Jennifer Hashley, our program director. We raised $15,000 to support new farmers! Thanks to the involvement of individuals like you, we are able to continue our work training and supporting beginning and immigrant farmers and partnering with local and national organizations to build a strong network of skilled farmers and ranchers. We are so grateful for this investment in New Entry for new farmers!

Check out more photos from May 8!

Learning new skills at the National Farm Viability Conference
More farm viability! Three of New Entry staff attended the 3rd National Farm Viability Conference in Albany, NY. At the conference, New Entry staff learned new skills to provide farm viability TA that they will apply in supporting new and beginning farmers. The National Farm Viability Conference engaged over 300 professionals in the fields of farm and food business planning, financial planning, agricultural financing, farmland conservation, agricultural market development, and food hub management. The opportunity to network and learn from industry leaders and other professionals in their fields helped New Entry staff develop new knowledge and skills to support beginning farmers. The conference also included tours of nearby farms and value-added processing facilities.

Jennifer Hashley - Eisenhower Fellowship

Eisenhower Fellowship closing ceremonies in Philadelphia.

New Entry's Project Director, Jennifer Hashley, spend an action-packed three days in Philadelphia with global leaders, the 2017 International Fellows, and 2016 USA Fellows at the EF Headquarters for the closing ceremonies of her 2016 Eisenhower Agricultural Fellowship Program. Spending time with other Fellows learning about their fellowship experiences through engaging storytelling training and sharing, discussing the "future of work" (what will "work" look like in 50-100 years with the growth of artificial intelligence?), and gleaning leadership lessons from General Colin Powell were among the highlights. Last August 2016, Jennifer traveled for six weeks to West African countries of Nigeria, Ghana, and Liberia to learn from agribusiness leaders, government officials, NGO's, and farmer communities about strategies to engage young people in farming, how to scale technical assistance to farmers to support and expand production, the challenges West African farmers face, and emerging programs to support agricultural producers. On travel, Jennifer also spent time with two former New Entry farmer graduates - Suliman V. Kamara from Liberia and Osman Okyere from Ghana - learning how they have applied their New Entry experience to advance agriculture in their home countries. Jennifer is now connected to and committed to participate in a diverse global leadership network of over 1,500 alumni who are working toward a more peaceful, prosperous and just world.
